What is this a picture of?

What is it on a computer or phone?

Kids say the darndest things

Two people wrote "You've Got Mail!" showing that they apparently remember the 90s.

Guesses included "Opera glasses," "Googly eyes," "Two circles connected by a line," and "I have no fking clue."

Favorite response: "Ship's helm," Ahoy.

One person thinks this icon represents "The internet."

There was only one reference to Sherlock Holmes in the answers.

Respondents were a little fresh in their answers: "Uh ... a file folder. I don't know how to better explain that."

Favorite response: "Card from one of those card holders you can attach cards all around on and spin around (along horizontal axis)."

Though they correctly identified it, one person said this is "an outdated memory storage device used to baffle children."

Two people could not identify this object.
